BRITISH CONTINUE CAMPAIGN

Imperial Army Sweeps Westward Across Northern Libya After Mopping Up Captured Tobruk; Italians Reported to Have Abandoned Two More Outposts on Sudan-Eritrean Front

INTENSIFIED DRIVE PLANNED IN AFRICA

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The British imperial army, having mopped up captured Tobruk, is continuing its sweep westward across northern Libya, the Middle East Command announced today.

Further down in Africa, the high command said that the Sudan-Eritrean front the Italians had abandoned two more outposts and "are continuing their retreat."

In Ethiopia native patriots were declared to have inflicted casualties on Italians in hit-and-run thrusts south and east of Lake Tana.

The Fascist-abandoned outposts were said to be Kera and Alcolta. Previous British forces had reported that the Italians had withdrawn 40 miles inside Eritrea.

"Our troops are continuing their advance westward," today's war bulletin said briefly on the Libyan campaign.

In Kenya Colony, which faces both Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland, the high command said that vigorous patrolling activity was under way "up to and over the frontier on a large portion of the frontier" and that "few enemy were encountered."

Military circles here believed the British high command would make every effort to follow up the Tobruk victory with an intensified offensive on the entire African front, extending from Libya to Ethiopia.

The army guarding these shores—the most powerful force ever assembled by Britain—already is carrying out "dress rehearsals" to meet the expected blow.

Informed sources here said the British defense forces, in intensive training for more than a year against the day the Nazi legions might try to set foot on the British isles, have been ordered to speed up every phase of their preparations.

When—and if—the invaders strike, military quarters said it probably would be the greatest assault ever mounted by a military machine. And, they added, Adolf Hitler would find this island seat of empire ready.

Considerable stress has been placed on the part the Royal Air Force is expected to play. The ranks of the RAF have been greatly increased by recruits drawn from the home front and by trained pilots turned out under the broad commonwealth air training scheme.

REVOLT LEADER TO BE PUNISHED BY GOVERNMENT

Rumanian Council of Ministers Orders Search for Vice Premier and Iron Guard Chieftain, Charged With Heading Riots

GUNFIRE IS HALTED

Bucharest, Jan. 24.—(AP)—(Passed by Military Censor)—Rumania's council of ministers in a special communique announced today severe punishment would be meted out to Horia Sima, vice premier and Iron Guard chieftain, and other alleged leaders of the bloody rebellion against the Antonescu government.

This was the first official allegation that Sima was involved in the disorders. The Bucharest radio reported the army now is searching for him and others among the rebellious leaders.

The Antonescu government, once again in control of this Rumanian capital in collaboration with German armed forces, ordered swift trials for the rebels and called on citizens to report nests of snipers.

Military courts were under orders to try those rounded up within 24 hours of arrest, with punishment to be executed within 10 hours of sentencing.

All permits for firearms were cancelled, even those for hunting weapons. All civilian-held guns must be turned in by nightfall today.

The council of ministers communique said: "The following are considered as accomplices and therefore will suffer full penalties of the law: 'All who know of and do not announce to the authorities the places where the originators and executors of the rebellion are hidden, beginning with Sima, and ending with the last cutthroat who took advantage of the situation.'"

Information that German forces were helping restore order was lacking but German motorized troops, along with Rumanian police, Bucharest streets while General Antonescu sought to restore order throughout the country after three bloody days.

Baron Manfred von Killinger, newly appointed Nazi minister to Bucharest, arrived today. He was met at the station by Minister of Justice Michael Antonescu, former Minister Fabricius, the chief of the German war mission, General Hansen, and the chief of the German air mission, Lieut.-Gen. Spiegl.

A DNE, German official news agency, report here said the Rumanian high command had called the recruit class due for this year to report Feb. 15.

Division General Leonanu was made new director of the state police and Brigadier General Mitrea police government's communique asked the public to refrain from buying any jewelry, furniture or anything else from second-hand stores as, it asserted, much of these goods had been looted from homes.

The president told a press conference that he was divulging this much only to save a lot of headaches, speculation, and a flood of recommendations and endorsements for the appointment.

He laughed, but would not comment further, when asked whether the appointment would be delayed until after the lend-lease bill to aid Britain was passed.

Attorney General Robert H. Jackson and Senator James F. Byrnes, South Carolina, Democrat, have been mentioned for the vacancy.

Lindbergh Tells House Committee to Keep U. S. Planes at Home

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh (white arrow), opposition witness at lend-lease bill hearing, told the House Foreign Affairs Committee he believed it a mistake to export U. S. warplanes at this time because only a "few hundred at best" now guard this nation. Listening on the bench were Chairman Sol Bloom (black arrow), Representative Hamilton Fish (far right) and other committee members.

AMBASSADOR TO ARRIVE TODAY FROM ENGLAND

Lord and Lady Halifax Aboard New Battleship King George V, Expected to Land at Norfolk, Va., Late Today

SHIP NEARS HARBOR

Washington, Jan. 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt left the White House grounds by automobile today, presumably for Annapolis, Md., to greet Lord Halifax, new British ambassador, upon his arrival on the Battleship King George V.

London, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Lord Halifax, new British ambassador to Washington, and Lady Halifax probably will land today at Norfolk, Va., from the new battleship King George V, informed sources here disclosed.

Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill traveled with Lord and Lady Halifax to a northern port where they bade them Godspeed.

An admiralty communique said: "Lord Halifax, his majesty's ambassador-designate to the United States, and Lady Halifax will land in America today en route for Washington."

Fort Shelby, Miss., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Pennsylvania guardsmen of the 168th and 190th field artillery swung into the routine today of the year's active training they will undergo at this huge army center.

They arrived yesterday in three special trains, all in good spirits and only four reporting minor ailments on the 40-hour journey.

Most of yesterday was occupied in unloading equipment and assignment of the men to their quarters. They will occupy board tents, accommodating six men each and heated with stoves.

The units come from scattered parts of Pennsylvania.

New Bomb Snuffer

London, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The newest war gadget being offered to housewives is the "bomb snuffer."

It looks something like a dishpan upside down and is used for fighting incendiary bombs.

A housewife who finds an incendiary on her front stoop simply hooks a snuffer on a long pole and lowers it over the bomb. The missile is smothered in sand dropped automatically.

FORMER PLAYER SEEKS PARDON SEVENTH TIME

Harrisburg, Jan. 24.—(AP)—For the seventh time in the last ten years, Sam (Red) Crane, former professional baseball player, is seeking commutation of an 18 to 25-year prison sentence imposed for the fatal shooting of a man and woman in a Harrisburg cafe in 1930.

Once shortstop of the Philadelphia Athletics, Crane applied for release to the state board of pardons yesterday on the grounds he was drunk at the time of the shooting and that Connie Mack, owner of the Athletics, had promised him employment should he be freed.

Ever since he was convicted of second degree murder in the slaying of Della Lyter and John Oren, Crane's attorneys have sought his release and at the latest hearing Attorney Samuel A. Schreckengast, Jr., said:

"There seems to have been in the past a deliberate effort to discredit the fact that Crane was drunk at the time of the murder. He said Crane was a 'well-behaved' prisoner and pointed to his record 'before and after the crime.'"

Appearing for the family of the woman who was killed, Attorney Daniel Young, a representative of the contractors, said the men offered no explanation for the stoppage, but that he understood it was caused by a jurisdictional dispute between the steel workers and carpenters' unions. Union officials would not comment.

Work on the drydock, where super-dreadnaughts will be built, was not delayed, Young said.

Civilian employees at the yard will go on a 60-hour week beginning January 27.

WARREN COUNTY TRAINEES START ARMY SERVICE

Large Crowd Bids Farewell to Contingent of Thirteen Boys Entering Military Forces Under Selective Service Act

GO TO PITTSBURGH

A large crowd of relatives and friends of the 13 members of Warren county's second contingent of Selective Service trainees gathered here for the three-day festival of the Northwest District, Pennsylvania State Music Association.

The second contingent will be played at the same hour tomorrow evening and advance sales of tickets for the events indicate a capacity audience for both nights.

Students and directors arrived yesterday for their first rehearsals, the band sections preparing under the supervision of visiting instructors. These were then combined into final rehearsals directed by Walter Boeler, of Ithaca College, Ithaca, N. Y., guest conductor for the three-day period.

When the groups had assembled, it was learned that all out of town students eligible for the band were present but five, detained because of illness.

The students who make up the district band, which will be of approximately 120 pieces, are selected by the district committee upon recommendation of their school instructors and filing of their applications. These forms provide the committee with such data as the student's qualifications, period of illness.

A holiday air, combined with one of solemnity as the boys took leave of their families, was in evidence as the trainees grouped about the bus. George Geraci, a member of the Citizens Committee which honored the men at a banquet Wednesday evening, presented them to the bus.

The Warren county contingent is a part of a group of 125 young men from Washington, Westmoreland, Venango and Warren counties, which virtually completes the Selective Service quota of 1,105 from western Pennsylvania for the January induction period.

PAIR ARRESTED AN HOUR AFTER LOCAL HOLD-UP IS DENIED BY DEMS

Jamestown Police Nab Youths Who Robbed Times Square Service Station Early Today; Admit Other Jobs

FORMER COUNTY MAN

Two Jamestown youths, one a former resident of Warren county, were apprehended this morning shortly before three o'clock by Jamestown police, just an hour after they had staged a hold-up at the Times Square Service Station, Pennsylvania avenue, west, this city.

The duo allegedly admitted the robbery and confessed to holding up the attendant at the Motor Lighthouse Corporation's station, corner of Conewago and Pennsylvania avenue, on December 5, and a similar job in Bradford this week.

The men are Fred Sivi, 23, formerly of Youngsville, R. D., and Henry Simon, 24, both giving their address as 137 Chandler street, Jamestown. Sources from this city state that Sivi has two previous convictions, one in this state and one in Michigan, for automobile thefts.

They will be arraigned later today before Judge Allen Bargar in municipal court in Jamestown on charges of illegal possession of firearms, and will be returned to Warren on Monday to face charges of armed robbery.

The men entered the Times Square station shortly about 1:45 o'clock and held up the attendant, Everett "Barney" Sailor, taking about $30 from the cash register.

They followed the same procedure as in the previous holdup by attempting to lock the attendant in the restroom, but in this case the key was not turned far enough to lock the door, and as soon as Sailor heard the door close behind the pair, he went to the telephone, which is located near the door of the restroom, and called police headquarters.

The signal light was flashed on immediately, but the men had made their getaway before officers arrived. Night Captain Ekkard and Patrolman Gordon Munn were nearby as was Patrolman Freeman Johnson, and the latter got a glimpse of the car, a Plymouth coupe, as it pulled out of the station driveway.

Police in nearby towns were notified, and a cordon of officers was thrown around the entire southern end of Jamestown. It was stated by Chief Nelson of Jamestown, this morning, that the men had evidently taken the back roads and come into the city on Forest avenue. They were arrested in the heart of the city and were in possession of the guns and slightly over $30 when apprehended.

During the Lighthouse hold-up, the attendant, Edwin S. Aleva, Jr., requested the bandits to leave him sufficient change to carry on business, and the men complied. This morning they took nothing but bills from the cash register when Sailor suggested they also leave him the change.

Sailor and Leonard Whiteshot and Gerald Johnson, proprietors of the Times Square station, went to Jamestown this morning where the former identified the two men.

Deaoraph's hearing on another murder charge—the slaying of Roland Left Wentling, his 12-year-old cousin—was postponed indefinitely yesterday when Justice of the Peace James J. Arner said several papers in the case had been destroyed by fire in the Clarion hotel recently. Arner's office was in the hotel.

The double slaying occurred at the Wentling home near Knox December 27. Deaoraph has pleaded guilty to fatally shooting Wentling, but said the killing of the boy was accidental. Sheriff M. C. McKelvey said Deaoraph told him he was angry at Wentling because he considered his uncle responsible for the death of his father, Bert Deaoraph, in 1912.

Geary said disposition of the charge of murdering young Wentling would depend upon outcome of the elder Wentling case.

Harrisburg, Jan. 24.—(AP)—A year-long legislative study of Pennsylvania's unemployment compensation law brought recommendations today for a score of changes, including tax reduction, higher minimum payments and shortening of the waiting time for benefits.

Rep. Ellwood J. Turner (R-De), chairman of the joint state government committee established by the legislature to make the survey, disclosed its findings.

Prime attraction is the 1,120-pound Aberdeen-Angus steer of Leroy Huber, 18, of Macungie, Lehigh county, which yesterday was given the nod by Judge E. A. Livesay of West Virginia University as the 4-H grand champion.

Interest in the lamb auction will center on the pair of three South-downs owned by James Landis, 15,000.

REPUBLICANS REFUSE TO JOIN IN DISCUSSION AS MAJORITY MEMBERS OF HOUSE FOREIGN AFFAIRS COMMITTEE, HEARING TESTIMONY ON LEND-LEASE BILL, REACH DECISION FOR CLOSED MEETING

PRESIDENT DECLINES TO DISCUSS CHANGES

Washington, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Amid Republican cries of "gag rule," the Democratic majority of the house foreign affairs committee today ordered the top-ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Air Corps to testify in secret instead of public sessions of the administration's aid-to-Britain bill.

First there was an argument over the parliamentary situation; then the Democratic and Republican committee members met separately to discuss secrecy vs. publicity, and finally Chairman Bloom (D-NY) and Rep. Fish (R-NY), the minority spokesman, clashed angrily over the procedure ordered as the committee ended the hectic session for lunch.

Fish started the row by telling newsmen in Bloom's presence that a "practically unopposed gag rule" had prevented him from making a motion for the appearance of the military and naval leaders.

"I deny it," shouted Bloom. "There was no gag rule."

The decision was reached at a closed meeting of the majority after Republican members had refused to join in a discussion of the question.

Chairman Bloom (D-NY) told reporters the top ranking officers of the army and navy had declined by letter to testify before the committee except in secret session.

GRAND JURY TO GET CLARION CO. CASE FEB. 17TH

Clarion, Jan. 24.—(AP)—District Attorney W. P. Geary said he planned to take before the Clarion county grand jury February 17 the case of Frank Deaoraph, 43, charged with the slaying of his uncle, Reuben L. Wentling, 57.

TO GAIN DURING WINTER

Open winters may be of some advantage, but if the sheep flock is allowed to run over the fields there may be a tendency to neglect proper feeding, says County Agent O. C. Trutt.

Bred ewes ought to gain about 20 pounds during the winter, he points out. This means that they must get a good ration of legume hay such as alfalfa, clover, or soybean, twice daily, where it is available. Another requirement is a bushel crate of good, clean corn silage to 10 ewes daily, about 2 pounds each.

In addition Mr. Trutt recommends a light grain ration composed of 3 parts of whole oats, 2 parts of shelled corn, and 1 part of bran by weight. From half to three-quarters of a pound per head is enough.

The experienced shepherd has discovered that a liberal feeding program gets him two-fold results. First, it builds resistance to internal parasites, and second, it insures a large milk flow at lambing time. This is important because a good lamb crop is the shepherd's harvest.

CAPITAL GOSSIP

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Army stuff:

Chow goes modern — Surveying the army rations orders for the boys now doing their hep-hep, a veteran of other days can't help noting how the nutrition experts have changed their tune. Captain Calones of 1917-18 now is Major Vitamins.

In both the army and navy today the laddies are getting something that would have called forth snouts of "sisss" 24 years ago. For example, eight ounces of orange juice a day. That, according to the army men, who are supposed to know, is vitamin stuff and not only helps the boys to feel like hammering their chests when they roll out in the cold gray dawn, but promotes wound-healing in case there are any wounds to heal.

The present army ration also is designed, if that's the word, to give the raucous four times as much Vitamin B as government standards rate a "safe minimum" and four times the minimum of Vitamin C (citrus fruits and vegetables). The orange juice provides just one-fifth-second of the latter. The latest development in army nutrition, I'm told, is the business of "baking" bread with Vitamin B (1). More power to the old staff of life.

For Emergency ONLY

THE army has four ration orders: (1) Regular ration; (2) Field ration; (3) Combat ration; (4) Emergency ration for use only when a man or group is completely cut off from supplies.

It's No. 4 that has the boys mumbling in their sleep. It's a chocolate bar, about as big as a pack of cigarettes, and the size of the palm of your hand. Some of the boys are nibbling on it and the report is:

"Gosh, this stuff tastes like . . . well, it tastes funny."

I've been snooping and I'm glad to report: It's supposed to taste that way. It used to taste just like a plain chocolate bar, but it didn't take the army that long to discover the soldiers couldn't be trusted with their "emergency rations." They ate them as fast as they could be issued. So now, thanks to a little harmless culinary chicanery, Ration No. 4 "tastes kinda funny," and keeps a whole lot longer.

Back To Old Grind

POLICEMEN and firemen who patrolled the "selected" into the air, are discovering (at least) that it's not an idea of getting a change of pace for a while they were counting without that new theory of putting men into jobs where they'll count most. But after minimum preliminary training are being hustled right back to the old stand—the police to the Post Marshal's office to people are M. P.'s and the firemen to the post-fire house. They are staffed with a force of 25 men.

First Birthday

THE headquarters here of the United States Army is far beyond the times our old forces were and some and at least that we are making along. It comes from Fort Belvoir, Ga., and said "temporarily" 84th anti-tank battalion of its kind in the army's history celebrated its first birthday of its birth. It has 30 officers and 520 men and is fully equipped with the latest motorized gear of modern warfare. The new mean, natural, that it's a tank outfit in the army. It's just the first to get on its brand new 37mm anti-

NEW LAWS FOR HOME DEFENSE

Legislatures of 43 states are meeting this winter, and almost all of them will be confronted with proposals for home defense measures.

Outstanding among such proposals will be a set of five "model bills" drawn by various state officials as a result of a federal-state conference on law enforcement problems of national defense held last August. This program is being furthered by the Joint Conference Committee, with offices in Washington, and representing the Governors' Conference, the Council of State Governments, National Association of Attorneys General, Interstate Commission on Crime, and the Department of Justice.

Five "model bills" are on the agenda, and passage in all states will be sought, so as to create as nearly uniform conditions as possible throughout the country. The more important of them are:

1. A Sabotage Prevention Act. This provides severe penalties for intentional destruction or impairment of defense industries or facilities, trespassing on property devoted to defense work, and opens the way to closing of highways adjacent to the same by highway commissioners after public hearing. All the rights of labor asserted in the Wagner Act are reaffirmed, but C. I. O. President Philip Murray fears that the provisions could be used by local authorities in such a way as to nullify the right to strike.

2. An Explosives Control Act, closely controlling manufacture and sale of explosives under a licensing system.

3. An Interstate Public Property Protection Act. This enables a state to furnish police protection to its property lying in another state.

4. A State Guard Act. Congress has already authorized State Guards to take over the civil protection functions of National Guard units called away on federal service. The bill provides that governors shall prescribe regulations for such guards, similar to those of the National Guard, and wisely prohibits enrollment under it of any organizations as such, or payments to it by private individuals or organizations. Here again Murray believes such a guard force should be subject to greater civil control rather than responsible only to military law. This bill also provides that on request, a state guard may operate in other states.

New laws of this kind, which supplement the existing laws and the expanding G-man federal protection, need careful study in order that all proper rights of citizens be preserved.

THE CURIOUS CURIE

Miss Eve Curie, daughter of the co-discoverer of radium, is by all accounts a delightful young woman. Her sopiquant Gallic wit has charmed alike the audiences who have paid her well for the privilege of exposure to it and the acquaintances who have fallen under its spell socially.

Miss Curie is a woman of many talents, but one of them, we fear, is not diplomacy. Asked, on landing in New York for another lecture tour, what she thought of American aid to Britain, she gave the ladylike equivalent of a snort and asked "Is the United States giving help? I don't feel that selling goods on a cash-and-carry basis is helping. It is selling."

Poor United States—laboring under the impression that the million rifles, 2500 planes, 50 destroyers, thousands of machine guns and shiploads of equipment already sent to Britain might have been helpful, even though sullied with the gross taint of commercialism!

True, we should have known better, well taught by no less a mentor than Miss Curie's own France, which showed clearly its distaste for sordid commercialism when repayment of war loans was brought up by the United States after 1917-18.

All we can say, is, we're sorry. In our blundering way, we meant to help.

The concerts being given tonight and tomorrow night at the Beaty School by the District P. S. M. A. Band are worthy of every local citizen's support.

Not Peace, But a Dagger

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I have spent an interesting morning sorting and classifying several hundred letters from people whose careers I have admired.

Some of these letters are six or seven years old, and a few bear a 1941 date, and all have been accumulated at the whim of the postman over a period of years and tossed into whatever box, drawer or coat pocket that seemed convenient.

Sorting them is a task I have needed to perform for a long while—for when I need to spell the name of Stephen Vincent Benet's youngest daughter, or refer to the description of a Connecticut farm house that Phil Stong has written me about, I have to ransack the house and tear boxes apart and bring ruin to my quarters, and often without avail.

I was anxious to have these letters filed because I hope they will serve me as a sort of left handed diary. I have never kept a diary. I wish now that I had; for the nature of my work has led me inevitably into conversations and situations with many persons of consequence, and unless one keeps notes, which I do not—principally because I am seldom able to read my own notes once they become cold—or keep a diary, these situations and conversations in time fall out of mind and then are beyond recall.

AND so I have attempted to guard against this with a little system of my own. Not all of these letters are from people who are well known; some even are from persons I have never seen, and I have kept them because of their lucidity, or because I have found in them certain qualities of euphony and liveliness and style that I wish were my own.

Most, however, are from people whose names have reader appeal, and these are valuable to me—because they are a collection of "names," but because of the views and the information they contain and because of the light they throw on the background and the personality of the senders. And also, I suspect, because—when chronologically arranged—they suggest a sense of logic and sequence to my steps during the past few years that really wasn't there.

THIS is why I have utilized an entire morning in filing away these people in a series of unattractive, brown pasteboard casings that resemble oversized books and are identified by the label "Letters." They represent prize fighters, doctors, comic strip artists, novelists, hula dancers, adventurers, war correspondents, actors, and convicts. Their signatures betray characteristics that hand-writing experts would call bold, irresponsible, adventurous, secretive, timid. Their styles range from terse little sprays of words to the easy openhandedness of gossip. One calls me a liar and accuses me of plagiarism. Another explains the origin of a lovely old south sea legend. Some tell of voyages, assignments, and duck hunts. Many discuss the campaigns of Morgan, Sheridan, Jackson, Stuart and Lee. All have a color that is attractive to me and that I wouldn't want to be without.

Interesting Items Taken From the Warren Evening Times

On the way to a fire last evening, the Boy Scout truck, part of the equipment of the Centennial Hose Company, went on another tour and was put out of commission. This machine has been an eyesore to the department since it was bought. Chief Gordon stated today that it had never answered two successive alarms without something going wrong with it. The borough would be ahead if they would scrap this piece of apparatus and get a new truck.

The Pogi-Wah Fraternity held a meeting at the home of Arthur Schuler, Crescent street, last night and elected the following officers: President, Dick Topper; vice president, Ted White; secretary, treasurer, Bob Rappaport.

The drive for $4,600 to furnish the rooms of the local American Legion Post was started today with over fifty workers participating in the campaign.

Warren's quota of The Hay Rake, magazine published in Garland, was only 1000 this month. When feeling dull or downhearted this little magazine is like a spring breeze right out of the pine woods and is a sure and speedy cure.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Clinger and Miss Flower will entertain the members of the Shakespeare Club this evening in the auditorium of the Woman's Club.

The Warren Players, recently organized dramatic club of local talent, announces the presentation of its first stage performance—"Her Husband's Wife," a three act comedy to be given at the Woman's Club February 13. The cast consists of H. W. Conar, Richard G. Smith, S. M. McClure, Mrs. Raymond Steber, Mrs. Wallace Cowden and Mrs. Paul Coe. Byron Knapp is directing.

At a session of the Youngville Business Men's Association held Friday evening the following officers were elected: Charles Spencer, president; Earl Crandall, vice president, and Noyd Engstrom, secretary and treasurer.

For the fourth Sunday in succession weather conditions were ideal for winter flying, and airport on the west side was visited by large interested crowds throughout the day. Pilot Bill Kennedy had the Waco plane up a number of times.

Prof. Phil Santoro, of Warren, former musical director at the Liberty theatre, has accepted a similar position at the Palace theatre in Jamestown.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Augustus Caesar Made Rome World's Capital

THE glory and power of ancient Rome, which modern Italy would restore, was first achieved under the first Roman emperor, Augustus Caesar, pictured on the stamp above. Dictator Mussolini has kept the memory of Augustus fresh in the minds of modern Italians with several stamp issues. One set of 10 values and designs commemorated the bi-millenary of his rule.

But Augustus had more luck in Greek and Egyptian campaigns than in Julius Caesar, Augustus, as Caesar's heir, came into power. With Mark Antony and Lepidus, he defeated Brutus and Cassius in eastern provinces. Lepidus was removed and Antony and Augustus ruled.

Later Antony joined Cleopatra in war against Rome. Augustus was victorious and became sole ruler of the Roman world.

The first emperor was a builder as well as conqueror. He made Rome a city of marble, encouraged arts and literature. After his death in 14 A. D. the Romans honored him as a god.

A pearl was found in a fossil oyster, formed millions of years ago, in Coke county, Texas.

PETER was sitting up in bed, his eyes wide and shining.

"You—what?"

"I walked," Peter said. "I took six steps without the brace! That swimming pool's curing me, Cousin David!"

"Gosh!" David said. He sat down upon the side of the bed. He pulled the boy over against him. "Gosh, that's swell!"

"Shall I show you?" Peter asked, eagerly, kicking back the covers. "Shall I show you, Cousin David?"

"No, Peter, not tonight," David said. "It's after midnight. Go to sleep like a good kid. You can show me in the morning."

"Okay," the boy said. "But I—I thought you'd want to see me do it."

David grinned. "All right, Peter," he consented. "Let me see you do your stuff."

Peter got out of bed. He held to David's hand until he got his balance. Then he started off. One step—two—three—four—five—six—seven. Then once more the small boy toppled over. David ran to him.

"Oh, boy!" he said. "You did do it! You did! Seven steps, instead of six."

Peter looked up at him. This time he wasn't sobbing. He was smiling—happy, his face was flushed.

"I fall," he said, "but not like the other time."

"No," said David, "not a bit like the other time."

"Shall I walk back to the bed for you, Cousin David?"

"No, Peter, you mustn't overdo it. You must take it easy," David lifted the boy in his arms and crossed the room with him. "A little each day," he said. "Eight steps the next time—then nine—and so on and so on."

Peter snuggled down beneath the sheet. He reached up and hugged David tightly to him.

"I'll be riding that horse yet, won't I?" he said. "Just like my Great-great-great-Something-or-Other."

"You bet!" said David. "Go to sleep now—Peter."

He turned off the light.

And as he went out of the room, walking very softly, he once more thought of the "magic" which Polly had mentioned. Or maybe Peter was improving because he had made up his mind he wouldn't go on being a crippled little boy. Picky little kid, that small Peter Wiley.

David went on into his own room.

"I reckon Polly would make a darned good doctor's wife," he told the four walls there about him. "She'd be able to help a lot of folks after all her experience caring for ailing relatives."

He drew a deep sigh, and got into bed.

Thinking of doctors reminded him that he had promised to take Warren McNeill to see Doctor Ben the next day.

But when he thought of his long legs until his toes touched the footboard, and tried to go to sleep. But this was difficult. He kept remembering the things Polly had said to him on their way home from the picnic.

He flung himself over upon his stomach, and thrust his hand under the pillow, his favorite way of sleeping.

But even then he couldn't drift off into unconsciousness.

He found himself thinking about Margo's kiss underneath the wisteria arbor; the way she had clung to him.

Could Polly be right? Was Margo in love with him? The very thought carried conceit, he felt. But it was hard to tell about girls. Of course he had got a kick out of kissing Margo, out of being with her, but all along he had been telling himself that she simply liked him, liked being with him—and that since there wasn't much material to work on there in Ardendale, she had picked him. But now he wondered—and wondered very seriously.

A specialist for Peter. The boy well and strong, and winning, though there had never been anything the matter with his legs. Freddy's Polly flourishing, making money, helping a lot of boys that were afflicted like Peter.

On and on—David's thoughts rushing pell-mell here and there. Driving him—Warring him—Until at last he fell asleep from sheer weariness.

Warren's Problem

IT WAS late afternoon two days later when Warren McNeill came out to the lumber plant. He found David just preparing to leave for home.

"How about driving out to the Inn?" Warren asked.

"It's all right with me," David replied. "I've had a tough day of it, and a swim would go good."

"I'd like one myself," Warren said. "Shall we pick up Peter at the house, and take him with us?"

"Sure!" said David. "He's taken quite a fancy to you. He'll want to tell you about how he walked eight steps yesterday."

"Good kid! And I want to tell you about my talk with Doctor Ben."

"Is he going to sell out to you?" David asked, as they left the lumber yard.

"No."

"Say, I'm sorry," said Warren. "He made me an offer."

"He did? What sort of offer?"

"Well, he said he had interest in his practice," Warren explained. He chuckled. "The old fellow says he feels responsible for several of the oldsters in town, and thinks he ought to stay in practice until they all die off, or he does."

"Sounds just like him!" David laughed. "Are you going to go through with it?"

"I think so," Warren said. "I'm going to have a talk with Margo this evening. I'd like to get her reaction to the offer."

David said nothing to that. They walked along some distance in silence.

"Love's a funny thing," Warren commented presently.

"How do you mean?" David asked.

"A man like me falling in love with a girl like Margo," Warren replied. "She's probably not in the least fitted to become a doctor's wife, and yet here I am hanging around waiting for her to make up her mind."

"Will what she says to you influence you as to settling down here in Ardendale?"

"Probably," and then again, maybe not. After all, if I feel there's need of another doctor here, I oughtn't to let Margo's feelings in the matter influence me too much, ought I?"

"You're the doctor!" David grinned.

"By all rights," Warren went on. "I should have fallen in love with a girl more like Polly. Now there's a girl who would in all probability make a swell wife for a doctor."

"Then why not fall in love with her?" said David.

Warren gave him a quick look. "One can't just fall in love like that, my boy," he said. "Besides, Polly's in love with you."

"Don't be too sure of that."

"Well, aren't you sure?"

"No, not any more."

"What's happened to change you?"

"Polly, herself. She's developed some odd ideas here of late."

"What about?"

Changing Girls

"ABOUT us. She's got an idea now that I oughtn't to marry her, with me, and her Aunt Susan is still something of a responsibility. She feels it might hold me down—sort of keep my nose to the proverbial grindstone, so to speak."

"I see. But how do you feel about it?"

"Just as I've always felt," said David. "I've been planning to marry Polly ever since we were school kids."

Warren nodded slowly. "We seem to be on the spot, David—you and I," he said.

"Something like that, yes."

"Maybe we ought to try what I saw them do in a movie."

"What's that?"

"Exchange girls," Warren smiled. "Maybe if Polly thought you were switching over to Margo, she'd perk up. And maybe it would work the same way with Margo. He shrugged. "Women are built with strange minds. He went on. "The doctor who gets to be an analyzer and diagnose and dissect a woman's mind has made his fortune."

"I reckon you're right," said David. "Darned if I can understand 'em."

"You've got plenty of company along that line," said Warren. "They took a short cut to the Wiley cottage. David got the car from the barn."

Peter came running out of the house.

"Where you going, Cousin David?" he wanted to know.

"Out for a swim, Doctor Warren and I."

"Gee, can I go?"

"Of course. I was going to invite you, but you didn't give me a chance."

Peter climbed into the car, and took his place between the two men.

"Gee, us three fellows, swimming together!" he said. "And no girls around?"

"That reminds me," said David. "Maybe we ought to stop and get Polly."

"She's not at home," Peter said. "She went to work."

"Work?" said David. "What doing?"

"She's helping out down at the millinery store. Miss Angie sent for her. I went over to see if Polly wanted to go out to the Inn and do some work, and her Aunt Susan told me about it."

"When that means we do go womanless!" said David. He glanced at Warren. "Unless you'd like to ask Margo."

"Not this time, no," Warren said. "Like Peter, I think it would be fun to make it a stag party."

"What's that?" Peter asked.

"A party for men only," Warren replied.

"Gee, that's the kind of party I'd like all the time," said Peter. Then, after a moment's thought, he added: "Cept when Polly and I have parties together."

"I think you rather like Polly," said Warren teasingly.

FROCK WITH GATHERED YOKES

PATTERN 4690

by ANNE ADAMS

If you like to hear people say "How pretty you look!" rather than just "How pretty your frock looks!"—this is the style for you. Anne Adams has designed Pattern 4690 as a perfect background for your personality. Panels give slim, smart lines to both the front and the back skirt. The bodice buttons down to the waist—down and the sash ties gracefully. Outstanding feature of this is the yoke that's soft and gathered and very becoming—have it in self-fabric or highlight it in contrast. Your sleeves are short or long. Either rich silky jersey or a semi-sheer crepe would make a smart fabric choice.

Pattern 4690 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There was quite a do-do a few years back over Hollywood's "discovery" of the astounding fact that actors and actresses long past the spring chicken stage had boxoffice pull. The "discovery" was prompted by the renewed career of Marie Dressler, a hopeless has-been who couldn't get anywhere in Hollywood until Garbo talked. The connection was not direct, only if Garbo hadn't talked in "Christi" then Marie wouldn't have talked either, and Marie would have had to wait a few years before showing the locals when life really begins if your heart's in it.

About that time Lionel Barrymore, too, was picking up an Oscar, and Will Rogers was giving lessons in the art of being yourself to win friends, and pretty soon it looked as if anybody under 40 would have to be content with playing second fiddle to the oldsters especially after May Robson, talked into it by her friend Marie, got herself a job with Frank Capra and renewed her career with "Lady for a Day."

WELL, youth finally got a look-in again, aided by the Temple lasses and the Gable kid, and Hollywood got around to noticing how nicely Lana Turner wore sweaters. This put Hollywood approximately back where it was in the beginning and where it had remained until Clara Bow and "It" left the movies together.

With Mickey Rooney on top of the heap and Judy Garland in the leading ten, and Wallace Beery the only real old-timer in that select group, youth shouldn't have to lose sleep for awhile over another life-begins-at-40 peril. Yet, if you look around the sound stages today, you'll see the brigade of the elders hasn't been entirely washed from the important scene.

You'll see, in fact, that the Dressler-Rogers-Robson school is still functioning. No boxoffice leads yet—outside of Beery—but they're a threat.

LIONEL BARRYMORE is still in there pitching, and his kid brother John (whom it's now safe to call an ex-romantic) has joined the battle on the side of the characters. May Robson carries on with the verve of an ingenue taking her first lead.

And down "Tobacco Road" you'll find Marjorie Rambeau. If Miss Rambeau had been away somewhere, her "Tugboat Annie" could have been called a comeback. As she hadn't "Tugboat Annie" was merely a starring vehicle deserved because never in a long series of supporting characters, had she failed to make herself memorable.

And some of the younger boys, as if to keep in step, continue to anticipate the years in their characters. Claude Rains is no youth, but he's not the snow-haired eccentric of his Belasco impersonation, nor yet is he the cane-bearing music master of his Lerner. Ditto Walter Brennan. Not to be outdone, Orson Welles, and he only 25, finishes his "Citizen Kane" as a doddering antiquity.

Bases of public street clocks in Berlin contain an ambulance compartment in which first aid supplies are kept.

ROOF OF BOILER HOUSE AT ACID PLANT DAMAGED

Fire destroyed the roof of the boiler house at the Riverview Acid Works at Glade but firemen contained the blaze to that portion of the plant.

The fire was discovered by employees of the United Refining Company, who were working nearby, about 6:30 o'clock. At that time the entire roof was ablaze.

Besides the roof, which burned and fell in, the only damage was to insulation on steam lines and electric wiring.

The blaze is believed to have been caused by sparks from a welding torch, which was being used late yesterday afternoon. Fire-fighting equipment at the United Refinery was prevented from getting to the scene immediately by a passing freight train.

It is believed that the loss is covered by insurance.

Around New York

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There is a wall along Broadway before which most of the New York producers now are moaning and gnashing their teeth. For two years a play called "The Corn Is Green" made the rounds of the managerial offices with no takers. The producers had it for awhile but they didn't want to do it. The Theater Guild's board looked at it, read it, discussed it, read it, looked at it, and then sent it to its agent. Finally, the agent produced up on the desk of Herman S. Young. He liked it. He embodied a "C" class cast, composed by Terrell Barrimore, and he had it better liked it. It was a play about Broadway to be played in the theaters and the street, and the drama on Broadway.

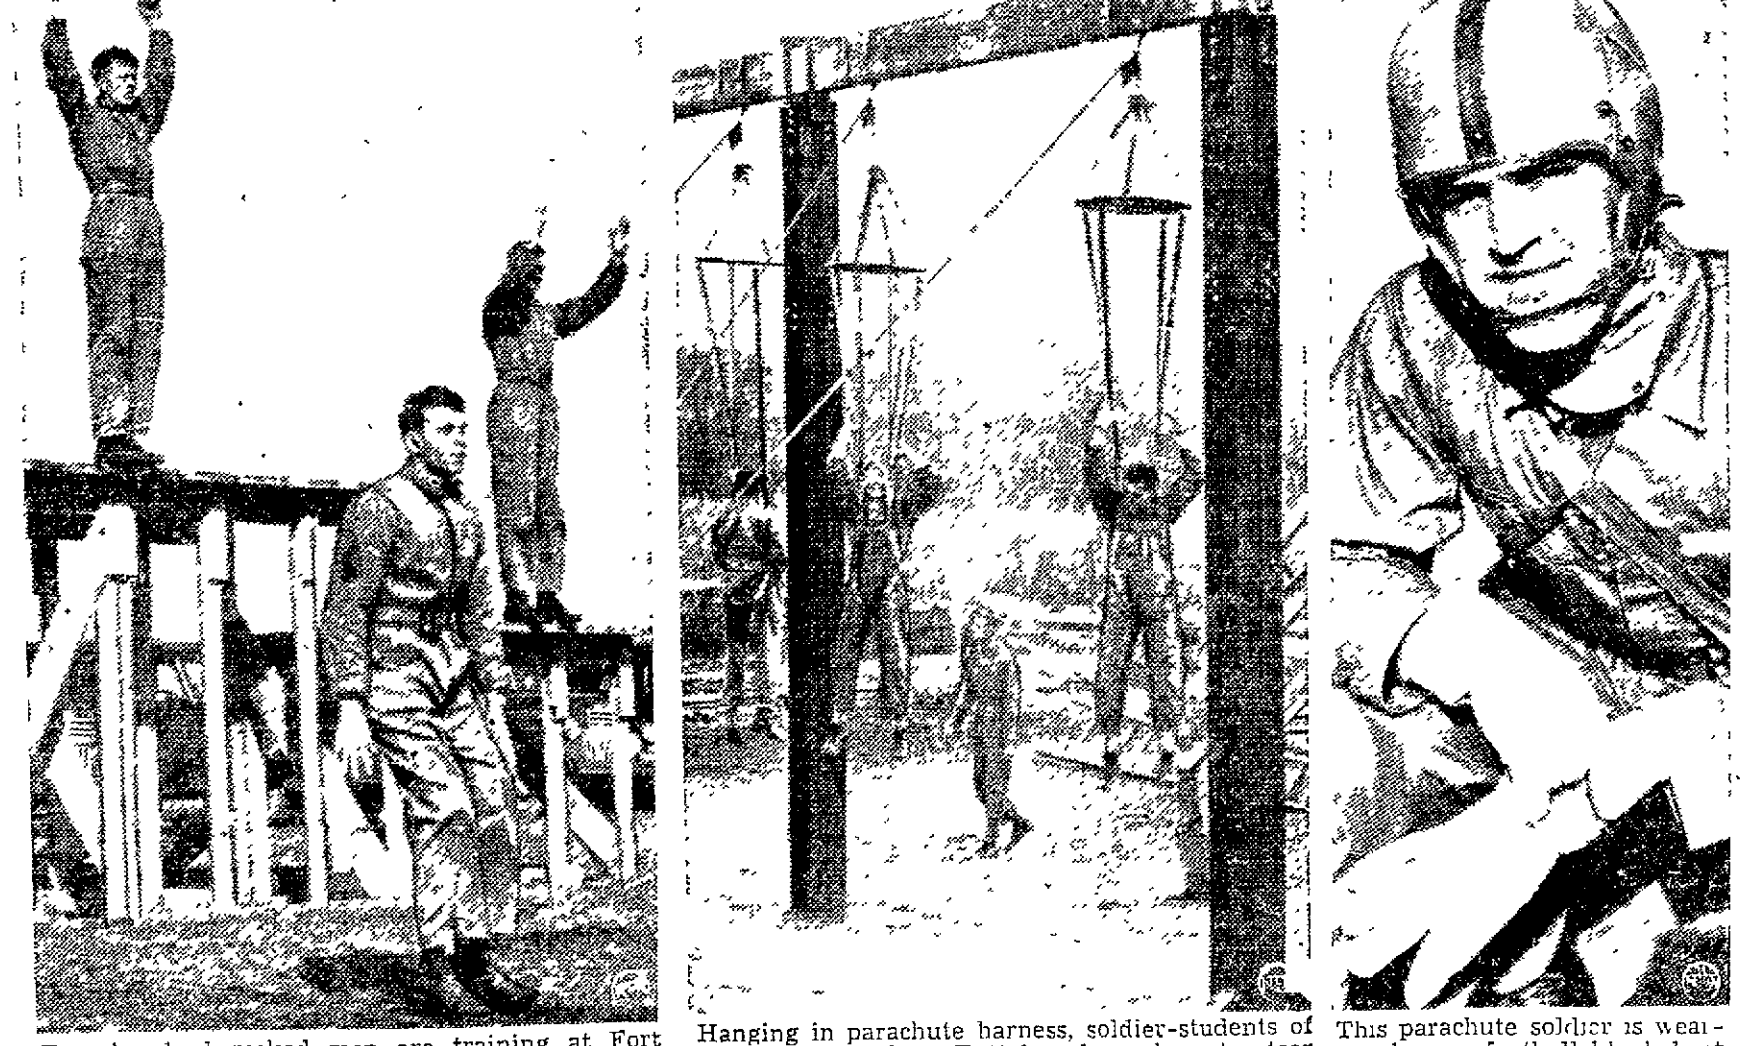

Almost a year ago a drama on Broadway was called "The Corn Is Green." It was a play about Broadway to be played in the theaters and the street, and the drama on Broadway.

Teaching the Young Idea How to 'Chute

Five hundred picked men are training at Fort Benning, Ga., to be the nucleus of large parachute units for the U. S. Army. Above, from wooden platforms, novices practice correct "take-off."

Function of parachute troops in modern war is to land safely, ready to fight at once. Above, a squad of Fort Benning, Ga., paratroopers has landed and, discarding 'chutes, is ready for 'enemy' with rifle, revolver and machine gun. Soldier in background is freeing himself from the big silken umbrella by cutting the shrouds with a knife.

ship HMS King George V, Capt. W. R. Patterson, CVO RN.

(The abbreviations following Captain Patterson's name designate him as a Commander of the Victorian Order and a Royal Navy Officer.)

The Prime Minister and Mrs. Winston Churchill traveled north with Lord and Lady Halifax and bade farewell to them at a north-east house prior to their departure.

This was the first official intimation that the King George V, 35,000 tons, is in commission.

C. D. Howe, Canadian supply minister, and members of his party, were reported to have returned to North America aboard the King George also. Howe went to London early in December.

The King George V was launched on Feb. 21, 1939.

Word was received from London last April that the King George V and four sister ships were undergoing trial runs, but the ship had not been mentioned in official dispatches since that time.

The floating fortress, described by the London press at the time of her launching as one of the "largest battleships ever built in this country," mounts 10 14-inch guns in two quadruple turrets and one twin turret, 16 5.25-inch guns and many lighter ones. The ship was designed to carry three aircraft and 1,500 officers and men. It has a speed of about 30 knots.

Rotary Institute of Understanding Opens; Large Number Attending

Inaugurating the Warren Rotary Club "Institute of Understanding," Major C. Douglas Booth, of New York City, addressed an audience of 450 interested persons last night at eight o'clock in the high school auditorium.

This institute, embodying a series of four addresses on vital topics, is designed as a study course in world events for both students and adults in the community. It is planned that speakers will talk before student assemblies on each date scheduled. However, no assembly was held yesterday because of the band festival here this weekend and dismissal from classes of all students above the second grade.

Major Booth was presented last evening by M. H. Dearborn, who also acted as discussion chairman for the open forum which followed the speaker's address. He was very enthusiastically received, arousing well for the state chosen by the local committee in arranging this series.

What the future will bring to American business, agriculture and labor depends upon two widely divergent prospects, according to Major Booth, who viewed the situation from the angle of the world in event of a totalitarian victory in the current European war and the opposite effect of a victory by the "forces of freedom."

He stated his own conviction that Britain, her allies and friends will emerge the winner in this conflict but offered both sides of the question in the remote possibility of a dictator victory.

He predicted dire results for all three phases in the event of totalitarian success, since the dictator nations would have absolute control of world markets and strategic material sources, weakening this country economically and ultimately from a military viewpoint.

In the light of a British victory, Major Booth painted a much different future, showing a tremendous upswing and unprecedented prosperity in continuance of the United States' great defense program. Against this, he pointed out, there will be a strong tendency towards inflation, which must be guarded against, and wages will rise abruptly.

The future of agriculture is not so bright as that of industry, he explained, prophesying that we will go along in much the same fashion as the past several years, depending upon domestic consumption and government subsidy.

Labor, he feels, is going to have a much greater part in national life than ever before, since in its new responsibilities he believes it will become more conservative in its demands and its tendencies, which interest in his topic was shown in the discussion period which followed.

The next speaker will be Dr. No Yong Park, of Chicago Ill., on Thursday evening of next week, January 30.

Hollywood Sights & Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—The theme of this story is growing old. It can be, and is, told over and over—the same plot with different heroes or heroines. Last week the hero was Tony Martin. This week it's Phil Regan. Next week, or the week after that, it'll be somebody else. It's a formula plot, to be sure. Hero goes on the road, sings—or dances, or stands on his head, whatever his specialty is—and wows 'em. He wows 'em so thoroughly that somebody from Hollywood hears about it, rushes up with a contract, and sends the conquering hero back to the movies.

Tony found his dotted line bouquet in Miami; Phil found his in Chicago. Tony is doing his stuff in "Ziegfeld Girl." Phil is in "Las Vegas Nights." Both are booked ahead for other pictures; for both, the future is rosy.

Phil, who used to work at Warner's and then at Republic, has a whole year's work cut out for him, this time at Paramount. With him, the new contract, he's moved his wife and four youngsters from Pasadena to Beverly Hills—the old Ruth Etting house.

Phil is something of a movie-land wonder. At 34, he's the papa of a thriving family. The fact was concealed when he was at Warner's. They didn't want their "singing cop" to be labelled a family man, especially the papa of a quartet. This led to so many complications that all the Regans, including Phil, were downright happy when the truth came out.

There was a time when such a revelation would have knocked a romantic singer's career haywire, but Phil says that it helped. Fans tell him they like the idea. So does Phil. He also likes the idea of early marriage—he was 17, his bride 16, when they were knotted. He's twice as old now, and the present Mrs. Regan is the original Mrs. Regan.

Phil doesn't mind telling you he'd like to be known as Phil Regan, rather than as "the singing cop," a title derived from his early service on the Brooklyn force. But fame of any sort, he reflects, is a relative thing. After a benefit for the sponsor generally wished him "all the success in the world."

Phil replied, "I'd like to be just half as good as Morton Downey." The sponsor said, "Downey? Never heard of him, but if that's what you want, I hope so." At the time, Morton Downey was just about tops.

GUFFEY TO ASK CONTINUANCE OF SOFT COAL ACT

Washington, Jan. 24.—(P)—Congress soon will be asked by Senator Joseph F. Guffey, Pennsylvania Democrat, to continue the life of the bituminous coal act, says Secretary Ickes.

Ickes, disclosing at his press conference that the last remaining law suit against the soft coal sales control measure soon would be withdrawn by the instigator, said Guffey now is preparing a continuing resolution.

The act regulates the price of coal at the mines and was enacted as an industrial stabilization measure to replace the original one invalidated by the supreme court.

Unless congress grants it new life, it expires this spring.

Ickes declared counsel for the Ayrshire, England, Colliers Corporation, which had complained the government had not followed the letter of the law in setting minimum sales prices, has informed the department they would withdraw their suit now pending in the Chicago district federal court.

This action, he said, would dispel, at least for the present, any chance that some court might hold the commission in legal error and force it to re-evaluate the prices which were so long in being established.

The lawyers said, Ickes went on, that they were satisfied with the administration of the act and had found out that the prices would not work to the disadvantage of Indiana coal. Their complaint was that of competitors in neighboring states.

HONOR ROLL
Arcade
Luttrell	213
Raisor	233
Morse	219
Fielding	215
Elks
Look	222

Rich's Atlantic Station took undisputed possession of first place in the Commercial League last night by taking a clean sweep from the Newell Press, while the County News, deadlocked for the lead last week, dropped three games off the pace by losing a tie to the O. K. Service lads.... The win put O. K. Service into a triple tie for third place with Olson & Bjers, who split with Sherwood Refinery, and the National Bangers who took three from the West Ridge.... Raisor's 233 and Luttrell's 213 were high marks of the evening.

Kinberger's won the battle of the bowlers by white-washing the Darling combine and increased its lead in the Elks Loyal Knight division.... The New Process copped a trio from the Times-Mirror to go into second place, displacing Hultman's Tailors who dropped three to Beckley's.... Denny Cochran's Barbers chalked up their first four-point of the year at the expense of Harvey J. Carey and came a little closer to the cellar steps.... Hatola Look hit 222 for the lone honor roll score and Warren Miller's 375 was best block of three.

PLAN TAG DAY HERE TOMORROW FOR DIME FUND

Mrs. Leon Harris, who heads the committee for the "tag day" to be staged tomorrow on the borough streets in the interests of the Warren County Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., has asked the following girls to assist in this very worth while community project:

Lillian Ristau, Helen Spies, Marie Anderson, Roberta Harris, Charmaine Albough, Mary Lou Fink, Dorothy Maines, Delores Massa, Shirley Peterson, Delores Casey, Dolly Littlefield, Barbara Kline, Virginia Johnson, Ruth Anderson, Alice Betts and Mary Mangus.

The solicitors will meet at headquarters in the Warren Land Company building, Pennsylvania avenue, west, at nine o'clock. The tag day held in 1940 brought into the local treasury the sum of $70 and it is hoped that amount may be reached or surpassed tomorrow.

Assisting in the headquarters, serving hot lunch and refreshments in the afternoon, will be a number of girls representing the Warren County Girl Scout Service Bureau, which is headed by Mrs. R. W. Mackay.

Directing this work will be two Scout leaders, Mrs. Vance Weld and Mrs. Kurt Kornan. The girls offering their services are Alice Alexander and Hazel Richards, of Troop 12 at Jefferson street school; Doris Dinsmoor, of Troop 13 at McClintock school; Marian and Marjorie Simones, First Methodist Troop 22.

Revolt Leader To Be Punished By Government

Early this morning Antonescu announced that the Iron Guard would be reorganized under his own leadership.

A government communique warned that persons who engaged in looting or who fired on military men, public buildings or citizens would be executed on the spot.

TIMES TOPICS

WEATHER GUESS
Extended weather forecast for the period from Jan. 24 to 29:

KIWANIS SPEAKER
Dr. T. E. Colley, pastor of the First Methodist church and a member of the local Kiwanis Club, was the guest speaker at last night's meeting of the Corry Club, when the 26th anniversary of Kiwanis International was observed. Also in the party were S. M. McClure, past lieutenant governor, and Robert Miller, of Warren.

NOT GIRL SCOUT
Mrs. Alice N. Correll, director of the Warren County Girl Scout Council, has asked the Times-Mirror to state that the girl who allegedly has been soliciting funds "to buy clothing for the poor" is not a Girl Scout as claimed. According to Mrs. Correll, it is a national policy that no Girl Scout at any time solicit money for any purpose.

Heaviest Snow of Winter Hits Entire State

sleet and hail fell intermittently with snow, multiplying highway hazards.

Temperatures, which ranged around the freezing point throughout most of the state, will rise slowly, possibly bringing rain. The Pittsburgh weather bureau reported.

In Pittsburgh, trolleys ran 10 to 15 minutes behind schedule and virtually all transportation facilities were hampered by the storm. Highway crews were ordered out in all southwest counties. Three hundred men and snowplows were rushed out to clear Pittsburgh streets.

Clearfield reported that almost an inch and a half of snow fell in the first two hours after the storm hit that section.

Two Dragons Wind Up Scholastic Cage Careers Tonight

Templeton And Cliff Graham Hang Up Togs After St. Marys Tilt

Cliff Graham and Earl Templeton will have their final fling at scholastic basketball tonight when Coach Koipien's Dragons clash with the Flying Dutchmen of the St. Marys court in a North League encounter.

Graham, one of three returning lettermen, has been regular forward and Templeton has been first string reserve pivot man.

The Blue and White need tonight's decision to stay in the pennant race on the outside chance that Bradford may be topped by one of the three remaining opponents this half. The Odds are against Ridgway and are topheavy favorites to stop the Blues.

Other games booked in the circuit are Johnsbury at Kane, with the Johnnies favored, and Sheffield at Emporium, with the Tubers having the edge over the victory-starved Wolverines.

The Dutchmen have won and lost two at this writing. After being thumped by Johnsbury and Kane, they came back to stop Ridgway and their bitter rivals, the Tubers.

Only the varsity will make the trip to St. Marys as the Elk courtians operate without a second team.

BILLIARD STARS TO HELP LAYTON

Chicago, Jan. 24.—(P.)—Johnny Layton, famed Sedalia, Mo., red-head, won the world's three-cushion billiard championship seven times. He valued it more than anything in life.

Today he found something he valued more: true friendship.

The men who shot the works against Layton in competition now are going to shoot the works for him—to help in distress. Laying flat on his back, vainly striving to recover from grave injuries, so the 15 players contending for the 1941 championship unanimously decided to turn their share of Sunday night's "gate" over to Layton to help defray hospital expenses. The sum of $2,000 may be raised.

AGING DETROIT INFIELD FAILS TO WORRY PILOT

Lakeland, Fla., Jan. 24.—(P.)—Felix Baker isn't predicting that the Detroit Tigers will win the 1941 American League pennant but he expects no worse of them than a year ago.

Since they were good enough a year ago to launch a drive that took them into the World Series, it would seem the Detroit manager doesn't expect them to finish in the cellar this year.

Taking inventory of his squad, Baker says that a flock of young pitchers will be coming up to help the Newsom-Bridges-Lowe combination; that the catching staff is one of the most capable in baseball; that the aging infield has been strengthened by the addition of Eric McNair, "who I think has a lot of good baseball left in him"; and that the outfield is pretty well set if Uncle Sam doesn't take his Hank Greenberg for army service.

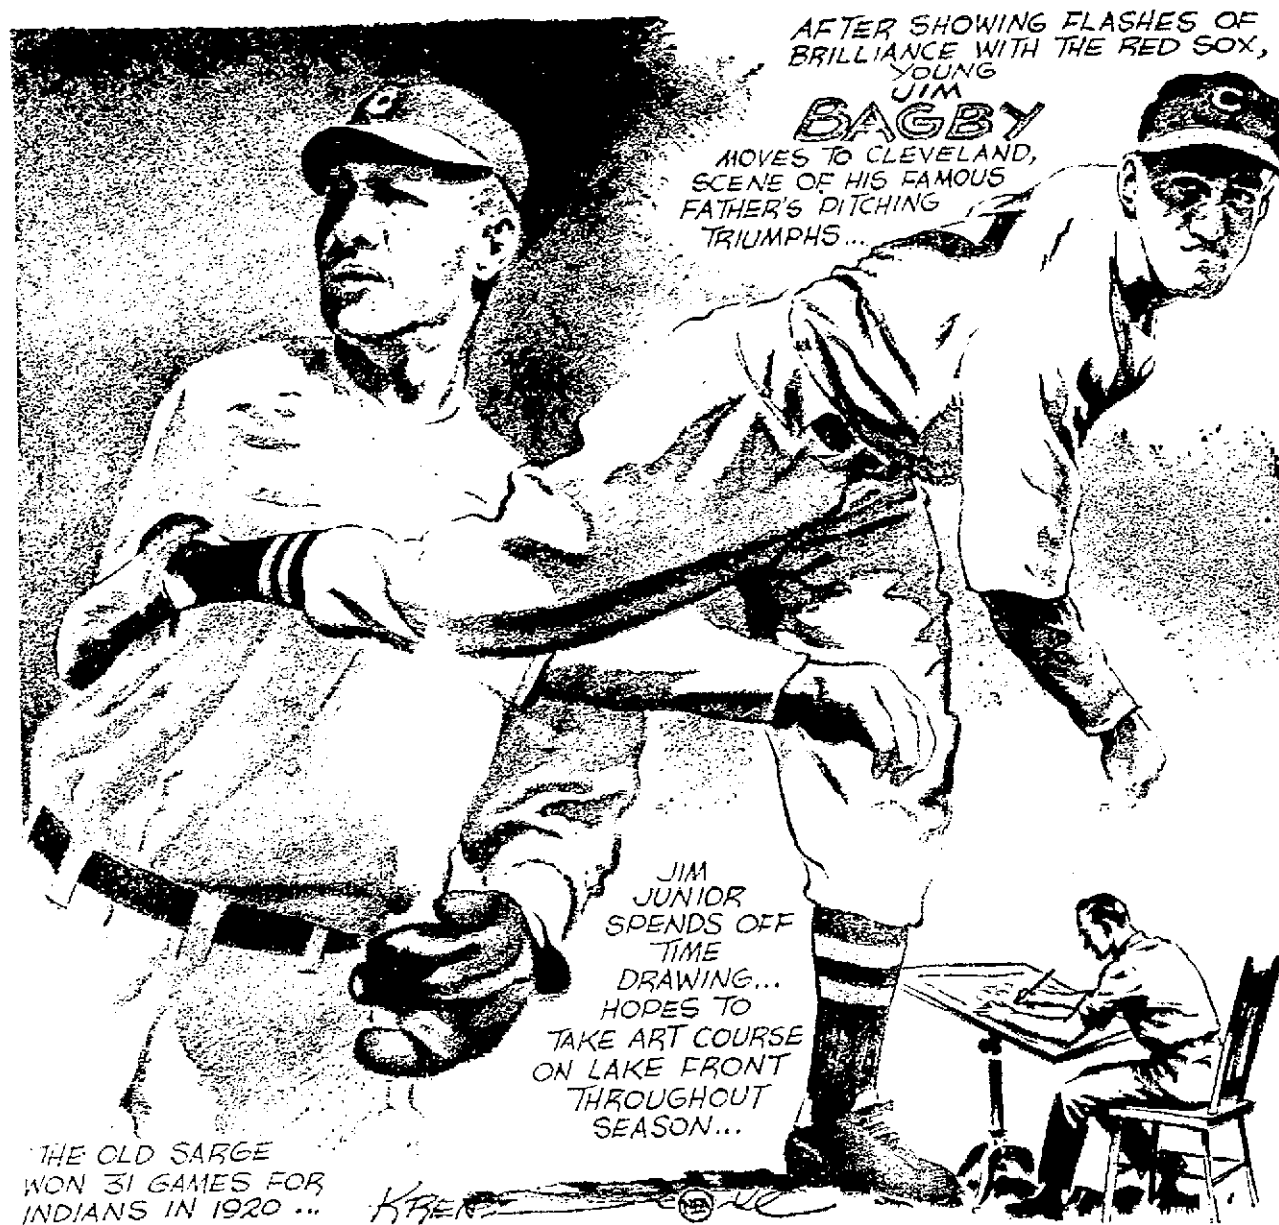

Concerning the infield situation, which is the chief worry of Detroit fans hopeful of another pennant, Baker asserted he believed it is every bit as good as a year ago.

He said Charley Gehringer's back ailment seemed to be clearing up and he expected the veteran second baseman to have a good year. Rudy York, of course, is a fixture at first base and Pinky Higgins is all set to play third.

"I'm going to turn McNair loose with Dick Partell and Frank Croucher and let them decide which will play shortstop," he said.

Loretto, Pa., Jan. 24.—(P.)—Milan Gurich, star of St. Francis basketball team, is called "Zero." That is the number he wears on his shirt.

MANY BIG NAMES IN BING CROSBY LINKS TOURNEY

Rancho Santa Fe, Calif., Jan. 24.—(P.)—Two-time winner Slim Sam Sneed may bag the $3000 Bing Crosby pro-amateur golf tournament for the third time, but gallery experts were unsettled as the weather today as the first division of the links brigade prepared to swing out in the first round of this tournament.

While Sneed and most of the other name-professionals take their first whacks at the Rancho Santa Fe course tomorrow, leaving 160 lesser known pros and amateurs in charge of the fairways today, nineteenth hole observers tried to guess a winner of the 36-hole affair.

Tall Ralph Guldahl, whose feat of winning the National Open crown two years in succession was the top choice of many, Guldahl is long "overdue" for a tournament.

"We do not, and will not, permit any of our members to wear shorts," said Mrs. Emma Phaler, secretary of the Women's International Bowling Congress. "They mostly bowl in slacks, but that is more true in the west than it is here."

"I guess the reason we won't permit shorts is that the well-shaped girls would look all right, but the fat women—well, that would be impossible."

East Lansing, Jan. 24.—(P.)—Chet Aubuchon, Michigan State basketball star, forced out of school by illness, has recovered and is working in a Gary, Ind., factory.

BOWLING CZARINA OUTLAWS "SHORTS"

Columbus, O., Jan. 24.—(P.)—The czarina of feminine bowlers took a look today at a fashion magazine depicting "what bowling women should wear" and turned down a neatly manicured but emphatic thumb—on shorts.

Spread across the magazine pages were pictures of several girls in slacks, blouses and red-berets—clad in shorts.

"We do not, and will not, permit any of our members to wear shorts," said Mrs. Emma Phaler, secretary of the Women's International Bowling Congress. "They mostly bowl in slacks, but that is more true in the west than it is here."

Former Player Seeks Pardon Seventh Time

(From Page One)
Nolan F. Ziegler said relatives "are just as vigorously opposed today as when first application was presented."
The board was also asked to pardon Edward T. Miller, Lock Haven, who was sentenced Sept. 20, 1938, to a year and a half in the Clinton county prison for the embezzlement of $5,000 from the Lock Haven Trust Company. He was paroled after serving ten months.

Draft Objector Dies After Fight

opia to rally his old subjects was accepted here as evidence that the British drive in that area was swinging into high gear.

Reports from Eritrea declared the Italians already had been forced to abandon 5,000 square miles of that colony to British troops advancing eastward from the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Nowhere are the Italians being given any rest, British sources said, hunting at a concerted drive Churchill's promise to "tear the Italian empire in Africa to pieces."

There was considerable speculation here as to where the next blow in Libya would fall.

British advance forces already were reported operating west and south of Derna, situated on the Libyan coast 36 miles from Tobruk. Observers believed General Sir Archibald P. Wavell might be attempting to drive straight across the Cirenaican "hump," by-passing Derna for a direct thrust at Bengasi, another 150 miles westward.

The main body of the army of Nile, meanwhile, was busy consolidating its newly-won position at Tobruk.

Edward Kennedy, Associated Press staff correspondent who entered Tobruk with the British troops, said it appeared likely that the total number of prisoners taken in the Tobruk region would reach 20,000.

A British communique announcing completion of operations there yesterday listed prisoners "so far taken at 14,000—indicating this figure might be revised upward."

The British estimated that the total number of prisoners taken in the North African campaign is close to 99,000, and calculated Italian dead and wounded at around 10,000.

Official sources put the British casualties at Tobruk at not more than 500 dead and wounded.
